TransParenting

Moving Families through change

"If couples can keep kids out of the marital war zone, then after a period of painful adjustment, children can recover their sense of family and themselves."

Parents...

TransParenting is an educational program designed to teach effective parenting during the transitions of divorce or parental separation. It impresses upon parents the critical role they play in their child's ability to adjust to changes surrounding divorce.

Our mission is to provide educational tools that help families move through significant change.

This is an educational program and not a counseling session...

The program emphasizes each parent's responsibility to provide a nurturing, non-threatening environment for the child.

"I have the right to be told that my mother and father will always love me."

Topics include:

- Children's Rights during divorce and separation
- Feelings associated with divorce
- Ways that children of different ages react during transition
- Suggested ways for talking to children about divorce
- Other adjustments children will need to make

Who Can Benefit from TransParenting?

- Divorcing parents
- Never married parents
- Custodial grandparents
- Concerned family members
- Divorced parents who are changing custody or visitation agreements
- Educators, Social Workers, Therapists, Clergy & School Counselors
